LIBERAL RALLY

At the armouries on Wednesday evening a large audience assembled to hear the issues of the present campaign discussed. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C., who very clearly and forcibly showed why all supporters of the Referendum should also support Mr. Carleton Woods, the Liberal candidate. The Hearst Government was elected by the liquor interests, and then threw them down when public opinion forced prohibition on their attention, and we have no guarantee that the Hearst Government, if returned to power, would not do the same thing to the temperance people, whom they now profess to support.

Mr. Carleton Woods, in a short address, explained his stand on the temperance issue. He has always been a temperance man, and will continue to support temperance in every way.

Mr. A. D. Bruce, a farmer, from Toronto, took up the platform of the U. F. O. While their platform could be accepted by any Liberal he gave convincing reasons why the Liberal candidate should be supported by the farming community in preference to the U. F. O. platform. Mr. Bruce also explained the Liberal platform of proportional representation under which the farming community would be certain of having a just proportion of representatives in the Legislature.

Mr. Curry, who is likely to be the next Attorney-General of Ontario, took up the question of trusts and combines in restraint of trade, and showed how the government had stifled the enquiries after true bills had been returned against the various combines.

Mr. Curry also explained clearly and convincingly the proposed social and moral reform proposals of the Liberal party, and the duty the state owes to widows and destitute women with children. Mr. Curry's address along these lines should appeal to the good sense of every woman voter.

Mr. Horsey followed with a short address reviewing the extravagance of the Hearst Government, and appealed to the meeting for loyal support for Mr. Woods on Monday next.

The meeting closed with "God Save the King."

MOSCOW

On Wednesday, September 24th, a very pleasant event occurred when Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Martin celebrated their fifteenth anniversary, and received in honor of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Earl R. Martin.

The drawing room was tastefully arranged with asters and ferns, forming an artistic back ground for the two brides. Mrs. Martin, Sr., was gowned in black duchess satin; the young bride appeared very charming in her wedding gown.

After good wishes had been extended the guests were invited to the dining room where a dainty lunch was served. In the centre of the dining table was the wedding cake, which looked lovely, nestling in its bed of tulle. The vases with the salvia and snap dragon added greatly to the appearance of the table.

Those assisting were Mrs. M. Huffman, Mrs. S. Hicks, Mrs. A. Huffman, Mrs. W. Benn, Mrs. S. Hart, Miss E. Evans, Miss Winnifred Eckhardt, and Miss Grace Huffman.

Miss Eloise Darling and Miss Glansie Woodruff's piano selections were much appreciated.

A few of those who called were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Aylsworth, Mrs. Rorke and Mrs. Cross, of Tamworth; Mrs. Davison, Sask.; and Mr. and Mrs. Hurl Huffman, Napanee.

MAKE INTEREST EARN INTEREST

Wise Investors In Victory Loans Will Add to Wealth

In Canada we are learning that the careful investors of European countries noted for their thrift have built up their modest fortunes not on swift ventures into speculations but by investing every spare copper in sound securities and re-investing the interest. We are learning to make interest earn more interest.

The thrifty farmers of Europe, who are among the greatest buyers of absolutely safe securities learned the lesson by saving.

It is safe to say that the majority of cautious Canadian farmers are saving the interest payments on Victory loans as the basis for further investment in these high class, high-return bonds.

This November and December interest payments in Victory Loans, totalling $33,000,000, are being distributed.

Setting the interest back to earn more interest not only greatly benefits the country, but also the investor.

MOSCOW

One of the most successful events in the history of Moscow took place on Sunday and Monday, October 12th and 13th, the celebration of the Golden Anniversary of the church. On Sunday Rev. R. G. Carruthers, of Morven, preached two inspiring sermons to attentive and appreciative audiences. On Monday a fowl supper and concert was given. Both here our Moscow's usual reputation along these lines. The supper was served in the Orange Hall, the concert being given in the church. The crowd was large, there being a number who could not get in to hear the programme, which began at 8.30 and continued for three hours, each number being thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. C. S. Lucas, of Selby, occupied the chair.

One unique feature of the programme was the presentation to Mr. Joseph B. Lucas, the only surviving trustee of the original Trustee Board, of the following address which was read by the pastor:

To Mr. Joseph B. Lucas:

We, the members and adherents of Moscow Methodist Church are reminded not only that this year is the Fiftieth Anniversary of the erection of our church, but also that it is the Golden Anniversary of your initiation into membership in our church Trustee Board.

We realize that indeed few persons have ever had the honor of serving for half a century in such a capacity.

We feel that we are greatly indebted to you and your colleagues, of these years, for the opportunities and privileges of worship that we are at present enjoying. You certainly must have had some rather strange experiences during these earlier years of church history; and when we recall your keen, kindly and sympathic interest still in the progress and welfare of our church we feel it a great honor to have a brother of such sterling qualities as one of our number.

Yours will be the last name to be added to the roll, of honor where there is a record of the tried, the true and the faithful of our church fathers.

What a sense of satisfaction is yours in the thought of the lives you have stayed, supported, encouraged and blessed during these passing years.

As a guarantee of our sincerity, and as evidence of our appreciation of your services and faithfulness, allow me, on behalf of your friends, to present to you this brief address.

We know that he in whom you have put your trust for years, will keep you still, and we pray that as the days are added one by one the full of life may continue to grow brighter.

Signed on behalf of Moscow Congregation:

H. A. BAKER,
Sec. of Church.
A. A. ASSELSTINE,
Sec. of Circuit.
J. F. EVERSON,
Pastor.
W. P. ROGERS,
Pres. of Conference.

The above address was printed in gold and framed in silk.

The proceeds amounted to considerably over $200.00.

The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by singing God Save the King.

If you do not get our one cent sale fist in your mail, ask for one or drop us a card and we will mail one. Remember the dates, Oct 30 31st and Nov. 1st. Wallace's Drug Store.

NELSON DAY DRIVE FOR NAVY LEAGUE

ITS OBJECT COMMANDS INTEREST AND SUPPORT OF EVERY CANADIAN

Ships and men to man them are the big need of the Empire to-day. Canada is called upon to do her share in meeting the necessity. Shipyards are busy and new boats are being turned out as quickly as possible to fill the great gaps made in the Merchant Marine Service through the dastardly work of the Hun submarines during the bitter years of the war.

Ships and more ships mean much to Canada, for this nation must have a great export trade for its surplus products if prosperity is to become permanent. Qualified sailors in great numbers will be required to man the ships Canada must provide as many of these men as possible, and must have them ready as the ships are ready. To this end the Navy League of Canada is doing wonderful work through the medium of its naval brigades. For the continuance and extension of this valuable mission and for the establishment and maintenance of Sailor's Homes in Canadian ports the League is now calling upon the citizens of the Dominion to contribute half a million dollars. That is the object of Nelson Day Campaign which is to be on Day Campaign which is to be on Day Campaign. The actual drive will last for three days, October 21, 22, 23, and the duty devolves upon every Canadian to make it a success.

Be sure and get your name on our mailing list for the one cent sale at Wallace's Oct. 30, 31st, and Nov. 1st. We will mail you a full list.

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:—

As the President of the Odessa Farmers' Cooperative Association Association I have frequently been asked, and the impression has gone abroad, that our Association is supporting the United Farmers' Candidate.

It was plainly stated by the chairman and others at the nomination meeting, which Mr. Brethen accepted, that no Associations or Clubs in the county were behind the movement, or in any manner interested in it.

Mr. Brethen announced himself as the candidate of the United Farmers of Ontario.

So far as I am aware the Farmers' Associations in the county of Lennox were organized by the District Agricultural Representative, and received their charter from the Provincial Government.

The Odessa Farmers' Co-operative Association, composed of over 200 farmers, probably the largest single Association in the Province, buy their feed and other commodities used upon the farm, in car lots at wholesale prices direct from the mills and manufacturers, and ship their hogs, cattle and live stock in car lots every week to the Packing Companies.

The Association is not affiliated with, or backing any candidate, with the United Farmers, and differs with them on the Military Service Act, and other matters.

The United Farmers' Candidate appeals to the United Farmers of Ontario in this county for their support. So far as I know there are none, or at least, a very few in the county, but it is his privilege to appeal to anyone he wishes.

Thanking you, I am,

Yours respectfully,
A. L. DAVIS.

LATEST TYPE OF TOURING CARS

One of the Features in Canadian National Railways' Daily Service Toronto - Winnipeg - Vancouver

The Canadian National daily trans-continental train, Toronto-Winnipeg-Vancouver, made its initial trip from Toronto, with one of the very latest type of steel tourist cars as part of its equipment, the first of an order of twenty such cars in which construction every point has been considered for the safety and comfort of passengers. This modern type of tourist car, with anti-telescopic device is of similar design to the standard sleeping coach, the exception being they are upholstered in leather instead of plush.

Electrically lighted throughout, all births, upper and lower, are provided with berth lamps. A new feature for this class of car is that lamps have been installed under the seats in the aisles of the car, so that when the ceiling lamps are turned out for the night light may be provided under little curtains, a great convenience for passengers when going through the car.

Phosphorous push buttons are readily seen in the dark, should the passenger require to switch on the light or ring the bell, when the berth is in darkness.

A safety feature introduced is a device for holding down the upper berth which precludes any possibility of the upper berth closing when in use. Separate berth curtains is provided so that passengers in the upper berths will not disturb passengers in the lower.

The kitchen has the latest steel range, facilities for washing dishers, and lockers enable passengers to store their food. Lavatories have received special attention, and provide greater conveniences than the older type. An electric thermostatic heating control can be so adjusted as to regulate the temperature of the car, thus preventing overheating.

Thus with the introduction of the daily service of the Canadian National lines between Toronto-Winnipeg-Vancouver, is the added convenience of the very latest type of tourist cars for second-class passengers who can enjoy a transcontinental trip in every comfort at minimum expense.

TO BLOCKADE GERMANY

Entente Threatens to Cut Off Supplies.

Berlin Denies That Seizure of Riga From Letts Was Connived at by Government — German Ships on Baltic Have Been Recalled and No Others Are Permitted to Put to Sea.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—It is officially declared here that the Supreme Council has not yet decided to reimpose the blockade of Germany in consequence of the aggression of Gen. von der Goltz against Riga.

The Supreme Council may find it necessary, however, according to official report, to refuse Germany's request for foodstuffs and raw materials, which is now the subject of negotiations.

No ships are being permitted to leave Kiel, according to the Vossiche Zeitung, which adds that Stettin shipowners have sent wireless despatches to vessels at sea to return immediately to Stettin or to go to the nearest port.

News of a blockade of the Baltic Sea has created a sensation in Danzig, where large cargoes of coal and herring were expected in the next few days.

The German-Russian attack on Riga was carried out on Friday under cover of a heavy bombardment by German guns, forcing the Letts to evacuate the city.

The capture of Riga is regarded most seriously by military experts here. They say that between the German-Russian troops and the city of Petrograd there is no force that would prove effective in stopping an advance upon that city, from which, once it was reached, it would be difficult to dislodge them.

The Letts, it is declared, will not be relieved, will expect the Peace Conference to furnish troops to resist Gen. von der Goltz and his Russian supporters, but who will furnish the new armies is a serious question. There is certainly no enthusiasm in Great Britain for embarking on more military expeditions.

A wireless despatch from Berlin, dated Saturday, says Germany's formal reply to the German note regarding the evacuation of the Baltic Provinces is expected momentarily in the German capital.

A majority of the newspapers, the despatch adds, consider the measures Germany has taken to meet the wishes of the Entente as inadequate, and express the fear that a "hunger policy" will be introduced to punish Germany for the developments in the Baltic.

Some of the newspapers assert that the Baltic question has nothing to do with present events; that the Baltic National Committee at Riga has declared itself neutral regarding the fighting between the Letts and the Russians, and that the Baltic land defence forces took no part in the attack on Riga.

"It is believed," says the despatch, "that Gen. von der Goltz's ultimatum also has been forwarded to the detachment of Major Bischof and will induce any hesitating German troops to join their returning comrades."

The statement that Gen. von der Goltz is preparing to advance toward Pskov is declared to be misleading, and that a return to Germany, and not an advance, is taking place.

"The Government asserts," says the despatch, "that all statements that Germany wishes to institute its own regime in the Baltic Provinces with the help of German troops is untrue, and that the Government promises its utmost aid if an Inter-Allied Commission is sent to the Baltic."

The note of the Allies to the Germans concerning the Baltic situation declares that there are delays and difficulties in the remembrance of the Allies in the evacuation of the Baltic Provinces. It does not admit the reasons put forth by Germany for the delay.

Then, saying that the situation in Lettonia has been aggravated by the attacks of the German troops, the Allies announce that it is their intention to keep up in their entirety the coercive measures announced September 27, as long as the evacuation is not continued, and to assist in the execution of these measures.

The note accepts the proposal made by Germany to send a Control Commission to the Baltic. To prompt reply to the note is asked for. It is stated in the note that Germany will be held responsible for any acts of hostility against representatives of the allies.

Sweden to Join League.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 14. — The extraordinary session of the Swedish Parliament is being continued while the ratification of the German peace treaty by a sufficient number of the great powers to put it into effect is being awaited.

When this occurs the question of Sweden joining the League of Nations will be immediately discussed by the Parliamentary body.

The leaders of all the Swedish parties have expressed themselves as in favor of Sweden's entrance into the league.

1,150 Tons of Sugar Coming.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14. — Importation of 1,150 tons of sugar from Hong Kong has just been licensed by the Canadian Trade Commission. When shipping conditions were favorable, Hong Kong supplied large quantities of sugar to Canada, but during the last eighteen months imports have been less than four tons. The Oriental supply will help to further relieve the sugar shortage in Canada, particularly in the West.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be reduced, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

FLYING PARSON WINS.

Lieut. Maynard Was First Man to Fly Across Continent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, the "flying parson," won the first coast-to-coast leg of the army air race. It was announced by officials of the American Flying Club, which assisted the army in the conduct of the race. He also won the recent Mineola-Toronto race.

His actual flying time for the 2,701 miles from Roosevelt Field, Mineola, N.Y., to San Francisco, had not been officially checked late last night, reports of the time keepers at the Reno, Nevada, control station having failed to reach headquarters here, but it was stated by Flying Club officials that they felt safe in announcing Lieut. Maynard first in the flight across the continent.

While Lieut. Maynard touched the ground at Roosevelt Field 20 seconds before Major Carl Spatz in the dash from west to east, Major Spatz was credited with second honors, having left San Francisco three minutes behind Lieut. Kiel.

Lieut. Maynard's total elapsed time was given unofficially as 75 hours 47 minutes, Major Spatz's as 83 hours 41 minutes and Lieut. Kiel's as 83 hours 44 minutes.

Only the unofficial elapsed time could be given, and the results of the two other divisions of the race—actual flying time and handicap time—must wait the receipt here of all officials' reports, it was said by club officials.

Despite announcement from the Army Air Service at Washington that the return trips of the planes would be started on October 20, it was intimated at the American Flying Club that the race might not be continued, and should it be, the route might be laid out in easy stages through the south in an effort to avoid the severe weather encountered in the west.

Lieut. E. C. Kiel, first of the east-bound transcontinental Derby flyers to complete his journey from San Francisco, landed at Roosevelt Field at 6.35.10 p. m. Saturday, followed twenty seconds later by Major Carl Spatz, who previously had landed by error at Hazelhurst Field.

Lieut. Kiel left Binghamton, N.Y., his last stopping place, at 5.06 p.m., eight minutes after Major Spatz had taken off from that control station on the last leg of the neck-and-neck race.

WILSON VERY ILL.

Senator's Letter Creates Sensation In United States.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Speculation over the exact nature of President Wilson's illness was increased Monday by the publication of the letter attributed to Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, written to a constituent in New England, containing the statement that the President had suffered a cerebral lesion and that "he may get well, but he will not be any material force or factor in anything."

Dr. Grayson, the President's physician, and Joseph B. Tumulty, his secretary, declined to confirm or deny the statements contained in this letter, or to authorise any statement about the real nature of the President's illness. The Moses letter has brought a more insistent feeling throughout Congressional circles here that some definite official statement should be issued to the country disclosing the exact nature of the President's illness.

In the absence of a definite official statement, rumor and gossip have run wild in Washington and all sorts of stories have been current for more than a week.

Senator Hitchcock, Democratic leader, who has made visits to the White House during the past week, was asked whether he possessed any information in corroboration of the statements contained in the Moses letter. After the text of the letter was read to him, the Senator said:—

"That does not conform to what information I have about the President's illness. I should call those statements a very gross exaggeration of the President's condition. I happen to know that the President has reached some important decisions while he was in bed. He has had submitted to him some important matters on which he has passed. I doubt if he could have done so if his case was as represented in the letter attributed to Senator Moses."

AFTER THE PROFITEER.

Local Committee Fight High Cost of Living In England.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The fully 1,500 local committees throughout the United Kingdom are now at work under the Profiteering Act to make the lives of profiteers miserable unless they obey the exasperated public's demand to bring prices down to a tolerable average.

Convictions already obtained under the law have caused offending tradesmen to return bills of which they had charged for certain articles, the prices of which they had advanced 150 per cent. One profiteering butcher overlooked the fact that one customer was a Justice of Peace, and the latter haled him to court and fined him $400.

What with many persons wearing old clothes rather than pay profiteering charges, and the present nationwide complaint that prices for clothing are out of all proportion, there has been a tendency among shopkeepers the last few weeks to mark $15 or more from overcoats and suits. So many men refused to buy summer clothes at the high prices charged that many clothiers have been "stuck" with large stocks, which they now are offering at prices $15 to $20 lower than a few months ago.

Brantford taxpayers have paid 98 per cent. of the taxes due.

FIUME NOW ISOLATED

Entirely Indifferent to the Rest of the World.

Citizens Are Determined to Remain a Part of Italy and Will Elect a Representative to the New Parliament at Rome—Plenty of Food to Prevent Blockade Being Made Effective.

FIUME, Oct. 13.—Fiume, entirely indifferent to the rest of the world, lives a life which to the cold-blooded observer from other regions, is more like a musical comedy than anything else. Processions with banners, bands and d'Annunzio messages spring up from nowhere and lose themselves in the crowd of enthusiasts or become resolved into other processions from opposite quarters of the city, all of which are animated with the same political fervor. Nobody thinks of to-morrow and nobody cares what is going on in such a prosaic city as London or the Peace Conference. By what seems to be a miracle there is plenty to eat, although the quality is not first-rate and the prices are at dizzy heights, but really there is no miracle about the food supply because the blockade is a dead letter. The "Militan Government," as the Italian Government is called with inexpressible disdain, is a dead letter. When 900 out of every 1,000 Italians are for d'Annunzio and an Italian Fiume, when every man wearing the Italian uniform is ready to fight for both, smuggling is an easy matter. Besides this, Dr. Grossics, president of the National Council, has got help from the Italian Red Cross headquarters in Rome, and they are already sending supplies of food and medicines. Fiume communicates with the outside world by wireless, which is under d'Annunzio's control and censorship.

Every city in the Italian peninsula is collecting money for Fiume and the People Italia, the Socialist organ, sends a message that it has already collected 1,000,000 francs. Every hour brings to d'Annunzio enthusiastic messages from municipalities and eminent persons all through the peninsula.

The Jugo-Slavs of the suburbs do not complain of ill treatment, and it is only fair to say that they have no ground for complaint.

Some of their priests fled when d'Annunzio entered the city, but it was a mere matter of nerves. The news that the Mayor of Genoa had enough grain in that port to feed the peninsula until the next harvest was greeted with "Of course he has." Fiume is determined to have its deputy in the new Parliament in Rome. His election, which will be an easy victory because he has no opponent, takes place on November 16, the date of the elections all through Italy. He is a sea hero and was chosen on that account. His name, Luigi Rizzo, is famous for his having sunk an Austrian dreadnought with three small motor boats and thirteen men. The odd part of the business is that Rizzo will get into the Chamber of Deputies no matter what Premier Nitti does, because he is also the candidate for Messina, the earthquake city down in Southern Italy, and the citizens of Messina guarantee his return if he also represents Fiume. His plan is to enter the Chamber as the Messina delegate and to fight for Fiume as that city's delegate. Nobody who has heard the applause that the name of Fiume raises in the Italian Parliament can doubt Rizzo's success there.

Will Safeguard Soldiers.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—The Special Committee on Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment will be prepared to submit its report to the House of Commons on Wednesday. The hearing of evidence concluded last Friday and the committee will have to draft its report. It is believed that the report will not likely call for further gratuity payments to discharged soldiers. It will, however, it is reported, advocate provision for the unemployed of the army during the coming winter months. It is expected also to advise more generous provision for dependents of soldiers who fell in action or died on service, and for incapacitated men. Some scheme for insuring men who, by reason of disabilities sustained on service, cannot obtain life insurance from private corporations, will also likely be suggested.

Swiss Considering League.

BERNE, Oct. 14.—The Swiss Committee for the League of Nations is arranging to hold a nation-wide campaign in favor of the adherence of Switzerland to the league. Meetings will be held in all important cities and towns.

In spite of the selection of a Swiss city, Geneva as the headquarters of the league, there has been some opposition in Switzerland to accepting membership in the league, owing to the fact that it might conceivably, under certain circumstances, require an abandonment of Switzerland's traditional, absolute neutrality.

Marriages Help Good Relations.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Statistics of civil marriages which took place in Paris in the years 1915 to 1917 show that 726 French women married Belgians, 336 Belgian women married Frenchmen, 149 Englishmen married French women, 72 Englishwomen married Frenchmen, 61 Americans married French women, and 15 Frenchmen married American women.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Oct. 14. — With more than 6000 cattle on sale at the Union Stock Yards yesterday, there was a fair steady demand for the good useful butcher class, with few or no real choice heavyweight cattle on sale.

Owing to the heavy receipts coupled with the holiday air everywhere apparent, together with the very large percentage of common cattle, prices for the latter were quotably from 25c to 40c lower than the close of last week's market. In some cases the decline was probably even more marked than these figures.

At the close of the market, at 4.30 o'clock, a good many cattle were left unsold, probably between 1,200 and 1,000 all told.

With a run of over 6,000 sheep and lambs, the market eased off fully from 50c to 75c.

With 1700 hogs on sale, and the market in its usual puzzling position as to prices, it is pretty hard to get down to definite figures, but we figure out the price at 17c f.o.b., 18c, fed and watered, and 18¼c weighed off cars, as likely to be the basis for the week.

Will Acquire G. T. R.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—Within a few months the Government of Canada will acquire the Grand Trunk Railway System and merge it with the Canadian National Railways, thereby making the latter the largest public-owned railway system in the world, with a mileage of over 20,000 miles.

A resolution introduced in the House of Commons by Hon. Arthur Meighen provides for the acquisition by the Government of the entire capital stock of the Grand Trunk Railway, except the four per cent. guaranteed stock, amounting to 12,500,000 pounds sterling.

A board of three arbitrators will determine the value of the first, second and third preference stocks and the common or ordinary stock. One of the arbitrators is to be appointed by the railway company, the second by the Government, and the third by the other two, or, failing agreement, by judges.

Mistrust Roumania.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—Insistent rumors of a treaty which Roumania is preparing to negotiate with Hungary continue to reach Peace Conference circles, and there is a general disposition to believe that certain Roumanian officials are striving to frame such a treaty regardless of the frequent denials which have been issued from Bucharest.

Roumania is alleged to be seeking to gain far more territory than granted to that country in the treaty the Peace Conference is framing with Hungary on behalf of the allied and associated powers.

War Saving Stamps.

A handbook issued by the Canadian Government in furtherance of the campaign for the sale of war savings stamps, contains a concise statement of this plan of investment, its attractive features, the methods of conducting the campaign and reasons why the money is needed. The attractive features of this form of investment are its absolute security, backed by the collective wealth of Canada, easy payments by means of small savings made at the investor's convenience, protection again loss by registration if desired, power of redemption with interest before maturity, and a fair rate of interest of five per cent. on the investment. The Government has authorized the issue of $50,000,000 of war savings stamps during 1919, and it is expected that they will all be absorbed. This money, says the handbook, is required in order to meet the interest charges on the war debt and to furnish funds for needed development in Canada, as it is probable that Canada will be thrown on her own financial resources for a considerable time to come. "Overseas in the devastated countries there is an immense demand for commodities such as we produce, but those lands devastated by war have not at the moment the cash with which to purchase. If we are to supply them with goods we must do so on credit and the banker of the situation is the Canadian Government."

Winnipeg Sees First Snow.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14.—Winnipeg experienced its first snow flurries of the season last Friday. Several points in Manitoba report snow. The temperature recorded here was 38 with a strong wind blowing. In Saskatchewan snow and gales were also reported.

Music Teaching.

About 1000 A.D. a monk in an Italian monastery had been thinking about the long, laborious task of training singers for the church service. Ten years were required for a singer to memorize words and music of the various chants and hymns used! There was no system for learning a new tune independent of the words.

And while he was thinking he heard his choirboys practicing one of their lessons, a hymn that rose in pitch with the first syllable of each successive line, just as the scale series was formed.

Thought flashed!

And the result of his thinking was the use of the syllables ut (changed to "do" later), re, mi, fa, sol, la, si, to facilitate scale learning. The immediate result was that Guido's choirboys learned all their tunes—and could take new ones—in six months as against ten years in the old way.

And the indirect result is that boys and girls in the schools of this country learnt the scales by a process similar to that thought out by a monk in Italy nearly 1,000 years ago.

James Louis Garvin.

Mr. James Louis Garvin, the well-known London editor, is generally classed as an Irishman, but he is not an Irishman by birth. His parents, however, were Irish, who settled in the north of England. Mr. Garvin, in a letter to Katherine Tynan, said: "My Irish friends forget that I never saw Ireland till I was over 20, and that I have never spent three months of my life there." In his early manhood he came under the hypnotism of Mr. Parnell, whom he still considers one of the greatest men of his time. Mr. Garvin was only 23 when Mr. Parnell died (October 6, 1891).

Everyone Who Bought Canada's Victory Bonds Made Money . . . . . .

EVERY one of the million and a half subscribers to Canada's Victory Bonds knows that he can sell them today for more than he paid for them.

Every one who bought Canada's Victory Bonds has received 5½ per cent. interest per annum—paid twice a year.

Over half a million Canadians who bought Canada's Victory Bonds on the instalment plan saved money that they would not otherwise have saved.

The guarantee back of Canada's Victory Bonds is the same as the guarantee back of a One Dollar or a Two Dollar bill. There is this difference, however, that you get interest on the Victory Bonds and you don't on the One or Two Dollar bill.

Canada's Victory Bonds will always be accepted as security for a loan.

Banks are ready to loan money on Canada's Victory Bonds.

Canada's Victory Bonds may be turned into cash at any time.

There is no other way in which you can invest your money with such absolute security—paying such a good rate of interest.

Canada will soon give her citizens an opportunity to buy Victory Bonds 1919. It will probably be the last chance to buy Canada's Victory Bonds on such favorable terms.

To the Voter

TO establish that the 2.51% beer to be voted on—the "Beer of the Ballot"—is not intoxicating, The Ontario Brewers' Association deposited $5,000 with the Canada Permanent Trust Company on September 16th.

¶ On September 19th, The Ontario Brewers' Association formally challenged the Referendum Committee through the Press to deposit an equal amount with the same Trust Company to support their contention that this beer is intoxicating.

¶ That challenge has never been accepted—clear admittance by the Referendum Committee they do not consider that they have a case. It is too late now to make the tests and render a decision before the day of voting—October 20th—but the failure of the Referendum Committee to answer our challenge will not be overlooked by the man or woman who votes on facts and evidence, and not on sentiment or false statements.

¶ We again assert that 2.51% beer—"The Beer of the Ballot"—is not intoxicating. Tests have only recently been made which prove this conclusively—we will mail a copy of the test to anyone sufficently interested to write for it.

¶ Moreover, while the "Beer of the Ballot" has an alcoholic strength of but 2.51%, official tests made by the laboratory of the Inland Revenue Department—published in Bulletin 196—showed that the beers on general sale before The Ontario Temperance Act and Prohibition were enacted, had an alcoholic content ranging as high as 7.33% by weight measure—practically three times as strong as the beer to be voted on October 20th. Even such American beers as were sold in Canada and always spoken of as "very light, non-intoxicating beers," were over fifty per cent. stronger than the "Beer of the Ballot."

¶ The "Beer of the Ballot" is a mildly stimulating, healthful and refreshing beverage, brewed from a high grade of malt and hops—containing only sufficient alcohol to make it digestible and nourishing.

Ontario Brewers' Association

To the Voter

DO YOU KNOW—that the beer sold in Ontario previous to prohibition ranged up to over 7% alcoholic content by weight measure, whilst the "Beer of the Ballot"—the beer for which you are asked to vote October 20th—has a strength of but 2.51%?

¶ DO YOU KNOW—that such well-known beers manufactured in the United States as Blue Ribbon, Budweiser and Schiltz—always spoken of as "very light non-intoxicating beers"—ranged up to 4.19%—sixty per cent. stronger than the "Beer of the Ballot"—the beer for which you are asked to vote October 20th?

¶ DO YOU KNOW—that in Maine, where prohibition has been in force over sixty years, the courts have held that beer of 3% alcoholic strength, was non-intoxicating—and any beer of under 3% strength was permitted to be sold as freely as ginger ale?

¶ DO YOU KNOW—that in Sweden, Norway and Denmark—as a result of the findings of Government commissions appointed to determine what was an intoxicating liquor—beer of practically the same strength as asked for in the coming Referendum is regarded as non-intoxicating and is sold everywhere, by anybody, without license, and without paying a Government tax?

HOW TO AVOID BACKACHE AND NERVOUSNESS

Told by Mrs. Lynch From Own Experience.

Providence, R. I.—"I was all run down in health, was nervous, had headaches, my back ached all the time, I was tired and had no ambition for anything. I had taken a number of medicines which did me no good. One day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for women, so I tried it. My nervousness and backache and headaches disappeared. I gained in weight and feel fine, so I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman who is suffering as I was."—Mrs. ADELINE E. LYNCH, 100 Plain St., Providence, R. I.

Backache and nervousness are symptoms or nature's warnings, which indicate a functional disturbance or an unhealthy condition which often develops into a more serious ailment.

Women in this condition should not continue to drag along without help, but profit by Mrs. Lynch's experience, and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

The Coal Question!

Notice to our Customers

The price of coal will advance at the mines at least 50c. per ton at the rate of 10c. per month beginning May 1st next.

Both the United States and Canadian railways, notwithstanding the advanced freight of last year, have not been able to meet running expenses for months past.

The probabilities are that freight rates will be advanced in the near future still higher. Therefore there is no cheap coal in sight.

We urge our customers to lay in their next winter's supply at once before we have to advance prices.

The police are looking for a man who pulled off an unusual stunt in broad daylight on Monday. He boarded a freight train near Napanee, and while it was on the way to Kingston, he robbed a car of wearing apparel, and when he jumped off the train in Kingston he had almost enough for a new outfit. Railwaymen noticed him jump off the train, but as yet he has kept clear of the law.

The semi-annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Clerical Union was held in St. Mary Magdalene's church on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 15th and 16th, and was attended by, the Bishop of Ontario and twenty-one clergymen. Papers were read by Rev. V. O. Boyle, M.A., on "Folk-Love in the Old Testament," and by Major Rev. A. H. Greegan, M.C., "The Chaplain's Mesage," and interesting discussions took place. Much attention was given to the subject of the forth-coming "Forward Movement." On Wednesday evening a public service was held at which the Bishop of Ontario and Canon Bedford-Jones addressed a large congregation upon the subject.

The Historical Society Lectures commence next week.

What do we know about the catacombs of Rome? Very little indeed, unless we have visited them, or have them brought to us by an illustrated lecture. Very few have had the privilege of visiting them, but all of us have an opportunity of seeing them upon the screen, and hearing all about them free of charge, in the Historical Hall on Friday evening next. The Chautauqua lectures drew thousands last summer and all were glad to pay the admission fee. Here's a lecture free of charge edifying and entertaining. Don't miss it. Remember Professor DeWitt next Friday evening. Everybody welcome. Show your appreciation of the Society's effort to give you a literary treat by turning out, rain or shine.

Obituary

Early on Sunday morning, Oct. 5th, died Mabel Gladys, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Deschene, aged 14 years and 10 months. She had had a severe illness over a year ago, but seemed to have regained health up to about two weeks before her death when she was seized with a severe affection of the heart from which no relief was possible. Gladys was a favourite among all who knew her, her quiet and amiable disposition winning her many friends. She was a very faithful and devoted member of her church, active in the Sunday School and young people's association and president of the junior women's auxiliary. Her funeral took place in St. Mary Magdalene's church on Tuesday, Oct. 7th, a very large number of old and young (including all the members of her class in school) being present to express their regard for the memory of a girl of exceptionally attractive qualities and their sympathy for the family circle thus bereaved. Floral tributes were received from the G. T. R. staff, G. T. R. employees, school mates and teachers, St. Mary Magdalene's Sunday School, Sunday School class, Junior Auxiliary, Mrs. W. Sagar and Clara, Miss Diana Miller, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood and Norman, Miss J. Loucks, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Stevens, Miss M. Wilson, Mrs. J. Keller, Mrs. Irvine and Miss C. Tierney, Mr. and Mrs. F. Ford, and Mr. and Mrs. P. O'Neil, and letters of sympathy from Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Herrington, and the L. O. B. A.

MRS. CLARK FEELS TEN YEARS YOUNGER

Before Taking Tanlac She Often Cried over Her Condition, She Says

"I don't believe I could have kept up much longer if it hadn't been for Tanlac" said Mrs. Henrietta Clark, of 278 Woburn Ave., Bedford Park, Toronto, Ontario, "My trouble began when I lost my appetite" she continued, "and I just had to force down what little I did eat, and after times I would be in great distress for hours. My nerves were in a dreadful state and my system became terribly run down. I could hardly sleep at night and would get up feeling so weak and exhausted that I could hardly go up and down the stairs, and I would become despondent at times over my condition that I would just break down and cry. I was on the verge of a breakdown and felt miserable all the time.

"I had not taken Tanlac but a short time before I became so much better that I certainly feel ten years younger. My appetite is fine now, I eat heartily of every thing and nothing hurts me at all. I am well and strong enough now to do all my housework and going up and down stairs never bothers me at all.

Tanlac is sold in Napane at WALLACE'S Drug Store, in Camden East by R. J. OSTER, in Wagarville by S. JACKSON. (advt)

Vote for WOODS and the New Government

A Vote for any Other candidate Means a Vote for the Old Government

TO THE ELECTORS OF LENNOX

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN :-

Having been chosen by the Liberals of Lennox as their Candidate, and being unable to see you all personally, I am taking this means of appealing to you for your vote and influence in the Provincial Elections which take place on October 20th, 1919.

I would like to meet all of you and discuss the points in issue, but owing to the brief time between the announcement of the date of the election and the polling day, and the territory to be covered, I can scarcely meet each voter personally, and those I am unable to see will, I hope, understand my difficulties in these respects and accept this form of appeal for your votes and influence in this contest.

In the matter of Temperance I may say that my record on that great question has been one of continuous and consistent support. I am the representative of the Township of Richmond on the present Referendum Board, and have assisted in the organization of that Township. I have in such degree been identified during my whole life with temperance reform that I had scarcely thought doubt as to my loyalty to the cause could eminate from any quarter. But to my surprise I find that statements are being made charging me with hostility, or at least, indifference, in respect of the efforts of the temperance people to secure the passage of legislation to remedy the evils of the liquor traffic to the fullest degree within the jurisdiction of the Province.

In rebuttal of those statements I will say that I am in favor of the retention of the Ontario Temperance Act, and in marking my ballot will do so with four crosses in the No column on the questions submitted. Furthermore, if elected, I shall use my vote and influence in the Legislature to carry out the will of the people to the fullest extent possible.

Can there now be any doubt as to my position on this great question ?

Government by the people for the people has always been my motto.

Has that ever been, in any form, the policy of the Hearst Government ?

The platform of the Liberal party, on which I stand, in brief consists of :

1. Progressive temperance legislation to the fullest extent of Provincial jurisdiction in carrying out the will of the people.

2. The square deal for the farmer and the furtherance of his interests as our largest and most important class of producers. There should be no fixing of the prices of his products unless the prices of commodities in other lines of industry are also fixed, and on a basis fair to all.

3. Public ownership and developement of the Provincial waterpower and other natural resources of the Province for the benefit of the people of Ontario who own them, and not their exploitation by combines and profiteers. Our nickle deposits should never again be diverted, as they were during the first period of the war to the support of the enemy of our country. And our Provincial Government deserving of unqualified condemnation for allowing that unfortunate and disgraceful incident to occur.

4. Investigate the high cost of living and do something to bring commodities to their proper value.

5. Decently and adequately look after the interests of the returned soldier.

6. The proper construction and maintenance of Provincial Highways and County Roads.

7. The improvement of the present educational system, social and moral reform.

8. The passing of election laws free from the manipulation of partisans. How many appeals were put in for this election under the present system.

These questions are all vital to the interests of the people of this constituency.

If I am elected they will receive my full advocacy and support.

On this platform I appeal to the electors of Lennox for their votes and influence.

I regret that a third candidate has seen fit to enter the field. It was announced, with my approval, at a convention at which he was selected that I was prepared to accept the U. F. O. platform, which is practically identical with the platform on which I stand. In view of my long and close association with the farming industry in business relations, and my service in municipal affairs, I appeal to farmers as a class for their undivided support.

Just one word in conclusion. I was the Liberal nominee in 1918, when there was a vacancy in the riding owing to the death of the late T. G. Carscallen. The war was on and it was decided that, if possible, an election should be avoided, and I withdrew. Now however, a new situation presents itself, and after a fair consideration of my position relative thereto I feel justified in making this appeal, believing I am entitled to your support in this election.

Yours very truly,

CARLETON WOODS.

W. M. C CONVENTION

The 26th Annual Meeting of the Bay of Quinte Branch of the W. M. S. held its three days session in Cambridge street Methodist Church, Lindsay, June 10th 11th, 12th, with 186 delegates in attendance. The President, Mrs. A. W. Grange, Napanee, was in the chair Mrs. (Dr.) Irwin, on behalf of the Mayor and the Town of Lindsay extended hearty greetings to the delegates. Mesdames Sissons, Dunoon and Ryley, representing the Anglican, Presbyterian, and Baptist churches respectively, gave very kind expressions of welcome to the out-of-town visitors. Mrs. White, of Plainfield, made a very gracious reply and revivified the progress of the W. M. S. since its organization 30 years ago, concluding with the statement that it now supports eighty missionaries in the home and foreign field.

The next on the programme was the reports of the superintendents of the districts. These reports gave evidence of a marked increase in membership and in funds raised as well as in enthusiasm. The report of Belleville was given by Mrs. Mc Farland and showed the largest increase of any district. The receipts for that district was $4765.12 an increase of $1003.82. Mrs. L. Foley gave the report for Bowmanville district. They report an increase in both membership and funds. Their total receipts was $2054.90, an increase of $415.82. Mrs. A. Hewitt reported for Brighton district. Their receipts were $2413.14 which was within $1.07 of the 20 per cent. increase aimed at, but their increase in membership reached the 20 per cent objective. Mrs. Lawlor, of Norwood, gave the report for Campbellford district. Their receipts was $2245.37, an increase of $451. Nearly every district showed an increase of 20 per cent and some over 60 per cent. Mrs. V. Coone gave the Cannington district report. They also had an increase in both membership and funds. Mrs. J. W. Roberts gave the report for Cobourg district. The total amount raised was $1837.86, an increase of $609.50. They report 329 annual members 48 life members and 34 L. L. B. The report for Lindsay was given by Mrs. (Dr.) Irvin. They report 316 annual members and the total amount raised from auxiliaries, circles and bands was $2137.70. Mrs. G. Harris reported for Madoc district, the total receipts was $2051.83, an increase of $315.49. The district reports 11 auxiliaries, two circles and six bands. Napanee district was reported by Mrs. Madole, they report 481 annual and 80 life members of the auxiliary, 26 L. L. B., 26 A. H., 103 circle members, and 269 band members, making a total of 987. The receipts for this year was $2620.68 an increase of $348.59. Mrs. J. K. Moore reported for Peterborough district. They have 824 annual and 109 life members, 55 L. L. B. and 289 band members, making a total of 921, an increase of 119 over last year. The total receipts for the district were $2438.93. Mrs. J. M. Wagar reported for Tamworth division of Napanee district. They report a total membership also 844, an increase of 110. Total raised, $2177.32, an increase of $466.04. Picton district was reported by Mrs. Laird, total membership is 729, which is an increase of 42 members, and 16 life members. The amount remitted to the Branch treasurer, $3080.52, an increase of $618.89. Many new methods for raising funds were suggested but many of the societies have adopted the method of systematic giving entirely which was correctly spoken of as being God's way. The official report of the Branch treasurer, Mrs. A. James Kendry, showed an increase of $6675.35, which exceeds last year's increase by over $3000.00 and surpasses the 20 per cent increase which was the objective for last year. Mrs. A. W. Ashton, corresponding secretary, recited the told of the failure to reach the objective of 20 per cent increase in membership and 15 missionary candidates and urged the necessity of having every woman in the church a member of the W. M. S. 178 Auxiliaries reported, the total membership is 5824 annual and 1130 life embers. During the year the circles and bands remitted over $6069.95 an increase of over $1000 above last year.

At the memorial service the names of 64 members were read who had passed beyond the vale during the year.

A new office was created, viz the office of strangers secretary. It was also passed that life membership fees be devoted to social service under control of the W. M. S. provided same resolution be passed by the board of managers.

The name of the new study book is "Crusade of Compassions."

Miss Hawley, a medical missionary from China gave a most interesting talk on the study book showing the great fund of knowledge given in this book of medical work in foreign lands, and urged every auxiliary to get the book and members also, and study the book earnestly. After reviewing the book Miss Hawley made a most earnest appeal for nurses and medical missionaries.

Mrs. Moore, of Peterborough, explained the rest fund and suggested that this fund be given a prominent place at our district conventions so that the fund may be increased. It was only for returned missionaries who have served two terms of five and seven years, and for each year's service they receive $15 a year. It is only for those without means of support

Miss Roarke, of Tamworth, the only missionary from the B. of Q. branch we are sending out this year, gave a very interesting address on the call to service, based on the words of Jesus "whosoever compels you to go a mile, go with him twain." She showed that the christian life was one of two miles, first mile is obedience to God, second is service for God. In the first mile we think of ourselves and all Christ has for us, while in the second we pass those blessings on to others. The first mile is but a preparation for the second. The second mile with him will send us into the world, but not always in person. Through prayer for home and foreign fields, through our auxiliaries, circles and bands we have the opportunity of going with him twain.

Miss Brackbill, a returned missionary, gave a very interesting address on the Chinese question. The Chinese question is the world question of to-day. John Fisk, historian of America, once said the two world questions were (1) the rise of militant Germany. (2) The awakening of China. We know from the late war what the first meant, but what will the second mean. Let us look at China's past. In 2852 B. C., the earliest record we have of China, was the gold age of China. In 2697 B. C., we find calendar and silk worm spoken of. In the year 900 A. D., they had cannons that threw twelve pound stones three hundred paces and in 1271 when Paris was a swamp, and England a mud hole, they had paved streets. Is it any wonder China is proud of her past, would we dare go there if not for the gospel. But China has been asleep. She had nothing to do with the outside world. But three events helped to awaken China, war and Japan 1894. Before this China despised little Japan but this helped to open her eyes. In 1900 the boxer trouble arose and an attempt made to drive out everyone, and in 19-10-11 revolution broke out and China became a Republic. Every fourth person in the world is a chinaman. Shall we not arouse ourselves to fight and be ready for the call. Science, learning, and commerce with vices of western civilization are sweeping in pell mell, shall the Christian church do nothing. If we cast out the demon of superstition only to have the demons of commercialism and materialism to take their place, then the last state of China may be worse than the first. God has wonderfully blessed our efforts in China in the last 26 years. We have Normal schools, boarding schools, universities, hospitals, training schools for nurses. When we first tried to open the Sabbath School only ten or twelve women came. Now Sunday School services are held in a large building packed to the doors. Last year we had to close one station and this year may have to close two, and the general board every year asks for more workers.

There is no place a missionary can not go in China. In 1895 they had to hide, they could not go out unless escorted by soldiers. They were spat at by children and called foward devils. In 1900 they were driven out, and again in 1910-11. Now what is the attitude to-ward us. The Chinese fled to us in the late revolution the hospitals were filled and the schools crowded. Opportunities are boundless but workers are needed. Someone said China must be fought in the school room.

The balance of this interesting report will be published next week.

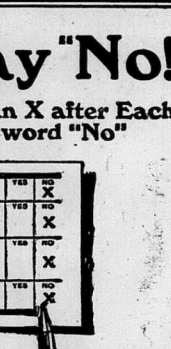
How to say "No!"

Mark Your Ballot with an X after Each Question under the word "No"

		YES	NO
1	Are you in favour of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?		X
2	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X
3	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure in standard hotels in local municipalities that by a majority vote favour such sale and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X
4	Are you in favour of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X



Above is an exact reproduction of the Referendum ballot, showing the correct way to Vote in order to sustain the Ontario Temperance Act as it stands.

Everybody should study the four questions and realize exactly what they mean. Do not be misled by the insidious demand for "light" beer.

The beer of the ballot is 118% stronger than the Ontario Temperance Act now allows, and over five times as strong as the limit allowed for beer defined as non-intoxicating in Great Britain and the United States.

Answer Each Question

1. Unless you vote on every question your ballot is spoiled.
2. You must mark your answer to each question with an "X" only. Anything else would spoil your ballot.
3. Unless a majority vote "No" on question 1 the bars will be restored and the sale of all kinds of intoxicants permitted.
4. Unless a majority vote "No" on questions 2, 3 and 4 the Ontario Temperance Act will become almost worthless.
5. The only SAFE course is to mark your ballot as shown above.

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

No repeal; No government beer shops; No beer saloons; No government whiskey shops.—Four X's, each under the word "No."

Long Live The King

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

COPYRIGHT, 1917, BY THE REDBOOK COMPANY. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED. COPYRIGHT, 1917, BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART.

In his room he sat down on a straight chair inside the door, and stared ahead. Then, slowly and mechanically, he took off his new uniform and donned the old one. He would have put on civilian clothes, had he possessed any. For by the deeds of that day he had forfeited the right to the king's garb.

It was there that Black Humbert, hurrying up, found him. The concierge was livid, his massive frame shook with excitement.

"Quick!" he said, and swore a great oath. "To the shop of the cobbler Heinz, and tell him this word. Here in the building is the boy."

"What boy?"

The concierge closed a great hand on the veteran's shoulder. "Who but the crown prince himself!" he said.

"But I thought—how can he be here?"

"Here is he, in our very hands. It is no time to ask questions."

"If he is here—"

"He is with the Americans," hissed the concierge, the veins on his forehead swollen with excitement. "Now, go, and quickly. I shall watch. Say that when I have secured the lad, I shall take him there. Let all be ready. An hour ago," he said, raising his great fists on high, "and everything lost. Now—hurry, old wooden leg. It is a great night."

"But—I cannot. Already I have done too much. I am damned. I have lost my soul. I who am soon to die—"

"You will go."

And, at last, he went, hobbling down the staircase recklessly, because the looming figure at the stairhead was listening. He reached the street. There, only a block away, was the cobbler's shop, lighted, but with the dirty curtains drawn across the window.

Old Adelbert gazed at it. Then he commended his soul to God, and turned toward the palace. Before it were packed dense throngs of silent people. Now and then a man put down a box, and rising on it, addressed the crowd, attempting to rouse them. Each time angry hands pulled him down, and hisses greeted him as he slunk away.

Had old Adelbert been alive to anything but his mission, he would have seen that this was no mob of revolutionists, but a throng of grieving people, awaiting the great bell of St. Stefan's with its dire news.

Then, above their heads, it rang out, slow, ominous, terrible. A sob ran through the crowd. In groups, and at last as a whole, the throng knelt. Men uncovered and women wept.

The hell rang on. At its first notes old Adelbert stopped, staggered, almost fell. Then he uncovered his head.

"Gone!" he said. "The old king! My old king!"

His face twitched. But the horror behind him drove him on through the kneeling crowd. Where it refused to yield, he drove the iron point of his wooden leg into yielding flesh, and so made his way. Some one raised a cry and others took it up.

"The king!" they cried. "Show us the little king!"

But the balcony outside the dead king's apartments remained empty. The curtains at the long windows were drawn, save at one, opened for air. The breeze shook its curtains to and fro, but no small, childish figure emerged. The cries kept up, but there was a snarl in the note now.

"The king! Long live the king! Where is he?"

A man in a red costume, near old Adelbert, leaped on a box and lighted a flaming torch. "Aye!" he yelled, "call for the little king. Where is he? What have they done with him?"

Old Adelbert pushed on. The voice of the revolutionist died behind him, in a chorus of fury. From nowhere, apparently, came lighted box banners proclaiming the chancellor's treason, and demanding a republic. Some of them instructed the people to gather around the parliament where, it was stated, leading citizens were already forming a republic. Some, more violent, suggested an advance on the palace.

The crowd at first ignored them, but as time went on, it grew ugly. By all precedent, the new king should be now before them. What, then, if this rumor was true? Where was the little king?

Revolution, now, in the making. A flame ready to blaze. Hastily, on the outskirts of the throng, a delegation formed to visit the palace, and learn the truth.

Drums were now beating steadily, filling the air with their throbbing, almost drowning out the solemn tolling of the bell. Around them were rallying angry groups. As the groups grew large, each drum led its followers toward the government house, where, on the steps, the revolutionary party harangued the crowd. Bonfires sprang up, built of no one knew what, in the public squares. Red fire burned. The drums throbbed.

The city had not yet risen. It was large and slow to move. Slow, too, to believe in treason, or that it had no king. But it was a matter of moments now, not of hours.

The noise penetrated into the very wards of the hospital. Red fires bathed pale faces on their pillows in a feverish glow. Nurses gathered at the windows, their uniforms and faces alike scarlet in the glare, and whispered together.

One such group gathered near the bedside of the student Haeckel, still in his lethargy. His body had gained strength, so that he was clothed at times, to wander aimlessly about the ward. But he had remained dazed. Now and then the curtain of the past lifted, but for a moment only. He had forgotten his name. He spent long hours struggling to pierce the mist.

But mostly he lay, or sat, as now, beside his bed, a bandage still on his head, clad in shirt and trousers, bare feet thrust into worn hospital slippers. The red glare had not roused him, nor yet the beat of the drums. But a word or two that one of the nurses spoke caught his ear and held him.

Slowly he rose to his feet. Unsteadily he made his way to a window, holding to the sill to steady himself.

* * * * * *

Old Adelbert had been working his way impatiently. The temper of the mob was growing ugly. It was suspicious, frightened, potentially dangerous. The cry of "To the palace!" greeted his ears as he finally emerged breathless from the throng.

He stepped boldly to the old stone archway, and faced a line of soldiers there. "I would see the chancellor!" he gasped, and saluted.

The captain of the guard stepped out. "What is it you want?" he demanded.

"The chancellor," he lowered his voice. "I have news of the crown prince."

Magic words, indeed. Doors opened swiftly before them. But time was flying, too. In his consternation the old man had only one thought, to reach the chancellor. It would have been better to have told his news at once. The climbing of stairs takes time when one is old and fatigued, and has but one leg.

However, at last it was done, and old Adelbert stumped to the door of the room where the council sat debating and the chancellor paced the floor.

Small ceremony now. Led by soldiers, who retired and left him to enter alone, old Adelbert stumbled into the room. He was out of breath and dizzy; his heart beat to suffocation. There was not air enough in all the world to breathe. He clutched at the velvet hangings of the door, and swayed, but he saw the chancellor.

"The crown prince," he said thickly, "is at the home of the Americans." He stared about him. Strange that the room should suddenly be filled with a mist. "But there he those—who wait—there—to capture him."

"Make—Haste," He Said, and Slid Stiffly to the Ground.

He caught desperately at the curtains, with their royal arms embroidered in blue and gold. Shameful, in such company, to stagger so!

"Make—haste," he said, and slid stiffly to the ground. He lay without moving.

The council roused then. Mettlich was the first to get to him. But it was too late.

Old Adelbert had followed the mist to the gates it concealed. More than that, sham traitor that he was, he had followed his king.

CHAPTER XIX.

In the Road of the Good Children.

Haeckel crept to a window and looked out. Bonfires were springing up in the open square in front of the government house. Mixed with the red glare came leaping yellow flames. The wooden benches were piled together and fired, and by each such pyre stood a gesticulating, shouting red demon.

Guns were appearing now. Wagons loaded with them drove into the square, to be surrounded by a howling mob. The percentage of sober citizens was growing—sober citizens no longer. For the little king had not been shown to them. Obviously he could not be shown to them. Therefore rumor was right, and the boy was gone.

Against the palace, therefore, their rage was turned. The shouts for the little king turned to threats. The archbishop had come out on the balcony accompanied by Father Gregory. The archbishop had raised his hands, but had not obtained silence. Instead, to his horror and dismay, a few stones had been thrown.

He retired, breathing hard. But Father Gregory had remained, facing the crowd fearlessly, his arms not raised in benediction, but folded across his chest. Stones rattled about him, but he did not flinch, and at last he gained the ears of the crowd. His great voice, stern and fearless, held them.

"My friends," he said, "there is work to be done, and you lose time. We cannot show you the king, because he is not here. While you stand there shrieking, his enemies have their will of him. The little king has been stolen from the palace."

He might have swayed them, even then. He tried to move them to a search of the city. But a pallid man, sweating with excitement, climbed on the shoulders of two companions, and faced the crowd.

"Aye, he is stolen," he cried. "But who stole him? Not the city. We are loyal. Ask the palace where he is. Ask those who have allied themselves with Karnia. Ask Mettlich."

There was more, of course. The cries of "To the palace!" increased. Those behind pushed forward, shoving the ones ahead toward the archway, where a line of soldiers with fixed bayonets stood waiting.

The archduchess and Hilda with a handful of women, had fled to the roof, and from there saw the advance of the mob. Hedwig had haughtily refused to go.

At the hospital, Haeckel, the student, stood by his window, and little by little the veil lifted. His slow blood stirred first. The beating of drums, the shrieks of the crowd, the fires, all played their part. Another patient joined him, and together they looked out.

"Bad work!" said the other man.

"Aye!" said Haeckel. Then, speaking very slowly, and with difficulty, "I do not understand."

"The king is dead."

"Aye," observed Haeckel, still uncomprehending. And then, "Dead—the king!"

"Dead. Hear the bell."

"Then—" But he could not at once formulate the thought in his mind. Speech came hard. He was still in a cloud.

"They say," said the other man, "that the crown prince is missing, that he has been stolen. The people are frenzied."

He went on, diluting on the rumors. Still Haeckel labored. The king! The crown prince! There was something that he was to do. It was just beyond him, but he could not remember. Then, by accident, the other man touched the hidden spring of his memory.

"There are some who think that Mettlich—"

"Mettlich!" That was the word. With it the curtain split, as it were, the cloud was gone. Haeckel put a hand to his head.

A few minutes later, a strange figure dashed out of the hospital. The night watchman had joined the mob, and was at that moment selecting a rifle from a cart. Around the cart were students, still in their carnival finery, wearing the colors of his own corps. Haeckel, desperate of eye, pallid and gaunt, clad still in his hospital shirt and trousers, Haeckel climbed on to the wagon, and mounted to the seat, a strange swaying figure, with a bandage on his head. In spite of that, there were some who knew him.

"Haeckel!" they cried. The word spread. The crowd of students pressed close.

"What would you do?" he cried to them. "You know me. You see me now. I have been done almost to death by those you would aid. Aye, death by those you would aid. Aye, arm yourselves, but not against your king. We have sworn to stand together. I call on you, men of my corps, to follow me. There are those who tonight will murder the little king and put King Mob on the throne. And they be those who have tortured me. Look at me! This they have done to me." He tore the bandage off, and showed his scarred head. "Quick!" he cried. "I know where they hide, these spawn of hell. Who will follow me! To the king!"

"To the king!"

They took up the cry, a few at first, then all of them. More than his words, the gaunt and wounded figure of Haeckel in the cart fought for him. He reeled before them. Two leaped up and steadied him, finally, indeed, took him on their shoulders, and led the way. They made a wedge of men, and pushed through the mob.

"To the little king!" was the cry they raised, and ran, a flying wedge of white, fantastic figures. Those who were unarmed seized weapons from the crowd as they passed. Urged by Haeckel, they ran through the streets.

Haeckel knew. It was because he had known that they had done away with him. His mind, working now with almost unnatural activity, flew ahead to the house in the Road of the Good Children, and to what might be enacting there. His eyes burned. Now at last he would thwart them, unless—

Just before they turned into the street, a horseman had dashed out of it and flung himself out of the saddle. The door was bolted, but it opened to his ring, and Nikky faced the concierge, Nikky, with a drawn revolver in his hand, and a face deathly white.

He had had no time to fire, no time even to speak. The revolver flew out of his hand at one blow from the flail-like arms of the concierge. Behind him somewhere was coming, Nikky knew, a detachment of cavalry. But he had outdistanced them, riding frenziedly, had leaped hedges and ditches across the park. He must hold this man until they came.

Struggling in the grasp of the concierge, he yelled for them. From the first he knew it was a losing battle. He had lost before. But he fought fiercely, with the strength of a dozen. His frenzy was equaled by that of the other man, and his weight was less by a half. He went down finally and lay still, a battered, twisted figure.

But Black Humbert, breathing hard had heard sounds in the street, and put up the chain. He stood at bay, a huge, shaken figure at the foot of the stone staircase. He was for flight now. But surely—outside at the door some one gave the secret knock of the tribunal, and followed it by the password. He breathed again. Friends, of course, come for the ammunition. But, to be certain, he went to the window of his bureau, and looked out through the bars. Students!

"Coming!" he called. And kicked at Nikky's quiet figure as he passed it. Then he unbolted the door, dropped the chain, and opened the door.

Standing before him, backed by a great crowd of fantastic figures, was Haeckel.

They did not kill him at once. At the points of a dozen bayonets, intended for vastly different work, they forced him up the staircase, flight after flight. At the end he cried pitifully that he knew nothing of the royal child, then he tried to barter what he knew for his life. They jeered at him, pricked him shamefully from behind with daggers.

At the top of the last flight he turned and faced them. "Gentlemen, friends!" he implored. "I have done him no harm. It was never in my mind to do him an injury. I—"

"He is in the room where you kept me?" asked Haeckel, in a low voice.

"He is there, and safe."

Then Haeckel killed him. He struck him with a dagger, and his great body fell on the stairs. He was still moving and groaning, as they swarmed over him.

Then Haeckel Killed Him.

Haeckel faced the crowd. "There are others," he said. "I know them all. When we have finished here, we will go on."

They were fearful of frightening the little king and only two went back, with the key that Haeckel had taken from the body of Black Humbert. They unlocked the door of the back room, to find his majesty sitting on a chair, with a rather moist handkerchief in his hand. He was not at all frightened, however, and was weeping for his grandfather.

"Has the carriage come?" he demanded. "I am waiting for a carriage."

They assured him that a carriage was on the way, and were very much at a loss.

"I would like to go quickly," he said. "I am afraid—my grandfather—Nikky!"

For there stood Nikky in the doorway, a staggering, white-lipped Nikky. He was not too weak to pick the child up, however, and carry him to the head of the stairs. They had moved the body of the concierge, by his order. So he stood there, the boy in his arms, and the students, only an hour before in revolt against him, cheered mightily.

They met the detachment of cavalry at the door, and thus, in state, rode back to the palace where he was to rule, King Otto the Ninth. A very sad little king, for Nikky had answered his question honestly. A king who mopped his eyes with a very dirty handkerchief. A weary little king, too, with already a touch of indigestion!

Behind them, in the house on the Road of the Good Children, Haeckel, in an access of fury, ordered the body of the concierge flung from a window. It lay below, a twisted and shapeless thing, beside the pieces of old Adelbert's broken sword.

CHAPTER XX.

The Lincoln Penny.

And so, at last, King Otto the Ninth reached his palace, and was hurried up the stairs to the room where the council waited. Not at all a royal figure, but a tired little boy in gray trousers, a short jack Eton coat, and a rolling collar which had once been white.

He gave one glance around the room "My grandfather!" he said. And fell to crying into his dirty pocket-handkerchief.

The chancellor eyed grimly from under his shaggy brows the disreputable figure of his sovereign. Then he went toward him, and put his hand on his head.

"He was very eager for this rest Otto," he said.

Then he knelt and very solemnly and with infinite tenderness, he kissed the small, not overclean, hand.

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. Danish Dairying.

In view of the fact that the people of the United Kingdom have accustomed themselves to eating margarine instead of butter during the war, Danish dairymen expect that the butter exports to the United Kingdom in the future will be only a fraction of what they were prior to the war. At the present moment the production of butter is down to 16,000 cwts. (112 lbs.) weekly as compared with 23,636 cwts. weekly before the war.

One result of the foregoing circumstances is that the Federation of Danish Dairies has turned its attention to the export of new milk to the neighboring countries lying to the northeast, east, and south of Denmark. During the last five or six years the sale of cream in Denmark has undergone a peaceable revolution through the introduction of homogenised-sterilised cream in bottles. The cream is passed through a machine which homogenizes it—i.e., breaks the fat globules in the milk into atomic fragments that are so small that they no longer float to the surface but become an integral part of the milk. The homogenised cream is then bottled and sterilized at a high temperature for fifteen minutes in an autoclave. Cream treated in this manner keeps for an unlimited period.

Mitchell's Hobby Made Him Famous

BRIG.-GEN. C. H. MITCHELL, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Legion of Honor (French), Order of Leopold, Croix de Guerre (Belgium), Order of the Crown and Cross of War (Italian); had a hobby. And that hobby suddenly picked him up in its arms and carried him up to the stars.

In spite of the blazing streak of ribbon on his left breast, he is not a professional soldier. Before the war, he was an engineer, an enthusiastic investigator of industry, both in the engineering and sociological sense. And he had a hobby which he rode feverishly, furiously, joyously.

And that hobby was the science of military intelligence.

In his younger days, when he was consulting engineer at Niagara, he was a member of an infantry militia regiment. But that line of soldiering—inadequate drilling, desultory shooting and an annual camping trip with red-coat manoeuvres, didn't strike his enquiring mind as being up-to-date. And, of course, there was the hobby.

So in due course he began to agitate for the formation of some military unit which would have army intelligence, maps and topography as its medium of service. In 1903, the Corps of Guides was formed and he became one of its senior officers.

He studied the ground. He learned to see a landscape in a map, a bird's-eye view from a chart. He studied earth, trees, streams, contours, figured out how to defend any feature from anything.

He doped out the defence of Toronto against invaders from all directions.

His engineering confreres regarded his zealous devotion to the subject with deprecatory smiles. Why couldn't Charlie bend all this energy to something more profitable?

But then the war fell with a crash, and the major, (as he was then in the Corps of Guides), promptly stepped into his ordained place as staff officer, intelligence, in the first contingent. His hobby developed into a gold mine for the troops. For besides having an eye trained to see everything of importance in a piece of ground, the major's enthusiastic studies had taught him also how to see spies, and more important still, how to grasp instantly the features of such things as trench warfare, patrols, organization of intelligence branches in small units.

A Canadian patrol in No Man's Land captures a German prisoner near Hooge. This prisoner, before going to prison camp, comes before an intelligence officer. He belongs to the 127th Landwehr. And how long has he been in the Hooge section. Ten days. Where was he before that? Down at Arras? The 4th Prussian Guards Reserve——

Ho, ho! says the intelligence officer, the second-rate Landwehr is pulled out of the line at Arras and the snappy, offensive guards are put in!

Something coming off at Arras!

Word is sent down. Our observation balloons watch the German lines at Arras for increasing artillery, increasing traffic on the roads in rear, new work on trenches and so on. The troops at Arras make a raid and discover from prisoners that something is "coming off."

So down by Arras, the British put in a lot more guns, shell the roads in rear, put fresh troops in the line. Old Heinie discovers that he has been discovered and calls off his attack. Hell has been check-mated. Hundreds of lives saved! Why? Because an intelligence officer talked to a Hun prisoner a hundred miles away, but, gathering all his facts together, had "doped out" the situation.

Gen. Mitchell was one of the most distinguished of these Intelligence officers. To describe all that the Intelligence Service deals in would take an encyclopaedia. But they gather everything, from the movement of enemy armies down to the digging of a new Hun machine gun post on a quiet sector of the line. They must know everything from the number of enemy guns on a certain piece of front to the number of good wells of drinking water to be found in a village we propose to capture.

Gen. Mitchell did great work as Chief of Intelligence in the Canadian Corps from its first trip to the line. He was a wizard with maps. He boosted the airplane as a photographer of enemy positions. He helped make air photographs the soldier's best guide. He could smell an enemy attack weeks ahead. And best of all, he could put in the hands of the infantry, just before an attack, the latest maps, the best photographs, and the neatest, concise, typewritten summary of what the infantry would find as they advanced! He was the eyes, ears, nose and taste—the senses—of the body of the corps. He selected the things we were to bite off, chew and eat up.

In October, 1916, during the Somme offensive, he was promoted to be General Staff Officer (Intelligence) of the Second Army under Gen. Plumer.

When the corps went to Passchendaele a year later, few will forget the splendid information that was supplied us for that seemingly impossible task by Gen. Mitchell. His resumes of previous actions, studies of the ground and forecasts of probable enemy action were masterpieces. He did all in his power to help his countrymen do that job. And you will recall we did it.

So Gen. Mitchell is home again, slathered with ribbons like an air hero. And his confreres, who smiled deprecatingly at a "hobby," swing still in their swivel chairs, with no decorations other than those which four years of worry have hung on them.

An Agent In New York.

Lt.-Col. John A. Cooper, of Toronto, who recently returned from overseas, has gone to New York to open a publicity office in that city for the Dominion Government. For some time such a move has been contemplated by the authorities at Ottawa. It has been felt that Canada's interests in the United States had reached a stage where they required careful and well-organized attention. Almost every South African country has its publicity representative in New York, and even Great Britain found it advisable to maintain a publicity staff there during the war. Australia is opening such an office, and Canada could not afford to be backward in this service. Col. Cooper is a past president of the Canadian Press Association, and has been engaged in editorial work for over twenty years. For some time he was editor of the Canadian Magazine and later was one of the founders and first editor of the Canadian Courier. He was the first president of the Canadian Club of Toronto. He is thus well-equipped for this kind of work.

The New York office which Col. Cooper will open will handle Canadian news despatches and also be a permanent source of information for United States news agencies, editors and special writers on magazines and commercial publications. For the present, the office will be under the control of the Department of External Affairs, but it is expected that it will ultimately pass under the control of Canada's representative at Washington when one is appointed.

Canada is the second best customer for United States exports and for some time to come Canada must draw her fresh supplies of capital from American sources. This makes it necessary that the latest information about the progress of this country, agriculture, financial, and commercial, shall always be promptly available to the reading public of the United States. Col. Cooper is thus undertaking a work of considerable national importance.

POISON LIKE UNTO Venom of Snakes

Professor H. Strauss, M. D., of the Royal Charity Hospital, says, "The cause for an attack of gout, rheumatism, lumbago, is supplied by the increase of uric acid in the blood serum, the result of various causes, the most frequent of which is renal. Before an attack, one suffers sometimes from headache, neuralgia, twinges of pain here and there."

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when the back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; when you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach; or you have rheumatic pains or lumbago, gout, sciatica when the weather is bad, do not neglect the warning, but try simple means. Take six or eight glasses of water during the day, then obtain at your nearest drug store 'An-uric' (anti-uric acid).

This is the discovery of Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y. "An-uric" is an antidote for this uric acid poisoning and dissolves uric acid in the body much as hot coffee dissolves sugar.

"An-uric" will penetrate into the joints and muscles, and dissolve the poisonous accumulations. It will stamp out torture.

Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y., for trial package.

TO THE ELECTORS OF LENNOX

The United Farmers of the county of Lennox have chosen me to be their candidate in the coming Provincial election. One reason for such a step is perhaps because Canadians from country and town are every day seeing more and more clearly, that if the Canadian people are to swim this deluge of national debt and after-war-unrest they must protect the farming industry of their country. More and more Canadians are seeing that on agricultural prosperity depends the extent of business transacted in country and town, that on agricultural prosperity depends the necessities of life, the cost of food, the cost of labor. More and more the fair-minded Canadian, be he Liberal or Conservative, town dweller or country dweller, is beginning to see that it is no longer safe to trust the welfare of this industry on which our very bread and butter depends to the cheap cavern which party politicians have always in the past given to this vital industry, agriculture. More and more we are seeing that as surely as day follows night, Canada will go down and out in the markets of the world, if her farms, already weakened by depleted labor are left to the sideglance of representatives whose main concern is not the prosperity of the farmer, but whose highest aspiration is to follow mildly wherever the halter strings of party leads them.

Convinced that Canada's future depends upon immediate legislation for her farmers I have, as a farmer, accepted the nomination of the United Farmers of this county. Having no party ties to relinquish I feel that I can, on behalf of the United Farmers, conscientiously ask for the undivided support of every woman and man in Lennox who has the welfare of prohibition, good roads, agricultural prosperity, and Canada's future nearer his heart than the old ties of party.

Thanking you I remain,

Yours respectfully,

C. B. BRETHEN.

Indian Calm.

"You can't feaze an Indian," said Indian Commissioner Malcolm McDowell. "You can't ruffle an Indian's calm dignity.

"I once had the satisfaction to point out to an Indian chief an airplane sailing across the sky. It was the first airplane he'd ever seen, and I had fond hopes that he'd show some excitement.

"'There!' I said. 'There! What do you think of it? Isn't it extraordinary?'

"The chief looked up at the airplane calmly; and then he looked calmly at me.

"'But it was built to do that, wasn't it?' he said."

"A Joan of Arc Machine"

"SHE withstood everything in the field and above all was, and still is, the last and only car to survive until the cessation of hostilities"—Extract from letter received by Ford Motor Company from a British Soldier, in Africa.

Over shell-torn roads, through water soaked fields, second only to the tanks in its power to climb debris and crater holes, the Ford car made a world famous record in the fighting area of the great war. In press despatches, in field reports, in letters, in rhyme and song the praises of the Ford were sounded.

In France	-	700 cars out of 1,000 were Fords

In Egypt	-	996 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
In Mesopotamia		999 cars out of 1,000 were Fords

The Ford power plant that established this world-wide record in every theatre of the war remains the same. It will be in the Ford you buy.

Intolerance or Compromise?

A Challenge to Common Sense!

DON'T let anyone tell you that the issue on October 20th is "The Beer or the Boy"—"Is Alcohol a Poison or not"—"Economy or Extravagance"—any such an abstraction.

The plain situation is—three sections of the people of this Province are absolutely dissatisfied with the Ontario Temperance Act and want new legislation that will permit the sale of light beer and wine generally, and the sale of pure, spirituous liquors only through Government agencies.

These three sections of the population are—ninety per cent. of organized labor, by actual vote; a large number of returned soldier organizations, by actual vote; thousands of the rank and file of the electorate who have joined the Citizen's Liberty League.

The plain issue then is—Are you going to vote for the safe, sane, fair compromise that these men and women want; or, are you going to insist on the retention of the unsatisfactory Ontario Temperance Act—insist on the retention of legislation that is breeding and will continue to breed dissatisfaction and discontent among our workers, returned men and a large section of the citizens generally?

Which are YOU for—COMPROMISE and HARMONY, or INTOLERANCE and Widespread Resentment?

Study the Ballot and analyze the situation conscientiously. This is one of the most vital concerns you have just now—a settlement of Ontario's vexed temperance problem that will be in the best interests of all the people.

Vote "Yes" to all Four Questions

Mark your ballot with an X. Any other marking will spoil it. Remember also—Every voter must vote on every question or his ballot will be spoiled.

Look to the Future

Begin with the Boys

THE glorious victories of Drake and Nelson were destined to be the foundation of our Empire and the guarantee of the freedom of the seas, which makes possible the vast international trade of Britain and her Dominions.

And yet when Drake and Nelson chose the sea as their life-work, who was there to know what would be the overwhelming consequences of their decision?

NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA

Aims of the NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA

To emphasize Canada's opportunities and responsibilities on the sea.

To raise funds for the relief of our merchant seamen, injured in the war, and for dependents of those who were killed.

To maintain sailors' homes in our ports.

To train boys and young men for our merchant ships by the organization of Boys' Naval Brigades.

Patron:
H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES
Dominion President:
COMMODORE AEMILIUS JARVIS

Today, if you have any question in your mind as to whether you should support the work of the Boys' Naval Brigades, study the matter with an eye to the future. Get clearly in mind the tremendous importance of Canadian products reaching foreign markets, which can only be assured by the building of a great Canadian Mercantile Fleet, manned with Canadian Seamen!

We may build ships by the thousand, but if we cannot man them ourselves our position is still economically unsound. If we do not train Canadian lads to man our merchant fleet, we shall be left behind in the race for export markets—we shall have missed the greatest opportunity for trade expansion in all history!

What will YOU do to help some Canadian boy who is anxious to learn seamanship, and so be of the greatest service to his country?

Let your contribution to the fund be a worthy answer. Help them by giving!

"Thank God I have done my duty!"

MR. C. B. BRETHEN, THE U. F. O. CANDIDATE

Since there is but little time for Mr. Brethen to meet the voters of the county, we wish to make them as familiar with our candidate as they would be had he been able to make a personal canvass of the county.

Mr. Brethen is a young man of about 28 years of age and it speaks well for his ability to be nominated so early in life as U. F. O. Candidate for the Ontario Legislature. He was born on his farm in the Township of Ernestown and except for the winter months expended in earlier life acquiring his education, he has always been a farmer. Early in 1916, over three and a half years ago he completed his education and turned his entire attention to farming. As a farmer he has been a success and is one of the largest dairymen in the county. In fact so successful a young dairyman has he been that in the fall of 1917 it was estimated that Mr. Brethen's farm was producing enough cheese to feed about 40 soldiers every day in the year. Besides being a real farmer, he is a non-party man, having for years such little respect for either of the old parties that he has never affiliated with either. His stand has always been that the farming industry means nothing from either old party and will gain nothing until it stands alone We might also mention that in addition to standing on the U. F. O. platform which is solidly for prohibition, Mr. Brethen is personally one of the strongest temperance men in the county being at the present time 1st Vice-President of the Referendum Committee for the county of Lennox & Addington. N. C. I. Sports.

On Wednesday last a strong football team from Sydenham came to test their mettle against the N. C. I. seniors. These teams met at Sydenham a week previously with an 0-0 tie for a score, so much doubt was expressed as to the outcome. It was nip and tuck from the first whistle but the play was nearly all Napanee's and the N. C. I. emerged victorious with a score of 2-1. Carter scored for Napanee in the first five minutes, after which the game tightened up. Then in the second division Wallace scored prettily for the visitors. At the very last of the game Russell scored the winning goal with a pretty shot from the right. Wallace was easily Sydenham's star, while "Gundy" Paul was Napanee's star.

SMILING

When you're feeling kind of blue,
Try Smiling
When the world goes back on you,
Try Smiling
When you know you do things right,
But never seem to win the fight,
Try Smiling
Sure it's hard, but then you might
Try Smiling
Doesn't change the things of course,
Just smiling
But it cannot make them worse,
Just smiling
And it sort of helps the case
Brightens up a gloomy place,
Then it sort o' rests your face,
Just smiling
